

DENVER, CO (February 26, 2022) - Snap2Save is proud to announce a partnership with nData Services to bring AI8112 digital offers to the healthy incentive market. The AI8112 Application Interface is a new standard in digital coupons that is all mobile and direct to consumer. The 8112 will facilitate powerful, one-to-one communication with consumers and has the potential to revolutionize healthy incentives by providing consumers with even more value by empowering them to make healthy choices for themselves and their families. Watch this space for more exciting news soon.

Snap2Save: Snap2Save, founded as a health and wellness focused loyalty app, has now developed technology to automate healthy purchase incentive programs without requiring integration with the retailer's POS system. This enables Snap2Save's applications to interact in real-time with transactions and provide retailers, agencies and clinics the opportunity to expand popular healthy incentive programs, while lowering labor and distribution costs. <https://www.snap2save.com/>

nData Services: nData's initial focus is on building settlement and reporting infrastructures to support the distribution of 8112 offers into the c-store and independent grocery markets, acting as a "Service Bureau" assisting the industries' thousands of owners to participate in this new promotional technology. <https://ndataservices.com/>